Fall Prevention Tips

Speak up. Tell a provider right away if you fall, worry about falling, or feel unsteady. Have your doctor or pharmacist review all the medicines you take, even over-the-counter medicines.

Keep moving. Exercises that improve balance and make your legs stronger, lower your chances of falling. It also helps you feel better and more confident.

Have your eyes and feet checked. At least once a year, check with your eye doctor, and update your eyeglasses, if needed.

Make your home safer. Keep floors clutter-free. Install grab bars in the bathroom and handrails in all staircases. Use automatic nightlights in hallways, bathrooms, and other frequently used areas. Source: cdc.gov

Grandparents Day: September 12

One of the biggest blessings you can have in life is grandparents.

For starters, think about the wealth of knowledge that your grandparents have to share. They are extraordinary people! They have lived many years, and have stories to tell that could expand our horizons. They have seen the world change in many ways. The next time you have a free afternoon ask them about their lives and the things they have learned. Ask if they have any “words of wisdom” for you. You’ll be amazed how much practical life advice comes from grandparents.

Having a relationship with your grandparents can be really fun. Many grandparents can be more relaxed than parents and will often spend more time, energy and money on things that parents would never agree to. Grandparents are usually happy to extend bedtime or allow an extra dessert on special occasion.

Many grandparents love to spend time with their grandchildren but are just unsure of how to initiate the relationship. Make an effort to go out of your way this Grandparents Day and get to know each other via in-person visit, text message, video chat or social media! But don’t forget everyone loves to get mail, so get creative and write a letter or create your very own card craft to brighten their day. You’ll never regret the time and effort you put into spending quality time with your grandparents.

Happy Birthday!

Emergency Preparedness Month

No one can prepare your family for a disaster like you can, because you know the personal health needs of your family best.

Get started by knowing the basics:

- Create an emergency water supply of at least one gallon of water per day for each person and pet. A two-week supply is better. Strongly consider storing even more water if you live in a hot climate, for pregnant women, and for family members who are sick.
- Your emergency supplies kit is not a dumping ground for all the forgotten things in your pantry. Take into consideration your family’s dietary needs, likes and dislikes, and—of course—any food allergies and medical conditions when choosing foods for your kit.
- Are you one of the many millions of Americans who take a prescription medication as part of your daily routine? If so, be prepared with an ample supply of medications and the devices and supplies necessary to take or administer the prescription.
- Remember to update your supplies every six months and/or if the needs of your family change. Remove, use, and replace any food and store-bought water, prescription medications, and supplies before they expire.
- Invest in emergency lighting, safe heating alternatives, and backup power sources for your cellphone and home-use medical devices.
- Fully charge your cellphone, medical devices, and back-up power sources if you know a disaster, like a hurricane, is likely to strike your area.

Resident of the Month

Francine K. – She prefers to be called Fran. Her favorite vacation place is Israel and if she could live anywhere that is where it would be. Fran loves Italian food and if she could only eat one meal for the rest of her life it would be Italian. If she was a super-hero her power would be helping people. When she was growing up she played baseball and the flute and was part of the All City Choir. She had a dog named Silver. Fran worked in Food Service for a living. Her favorite season is summer because everything is flourishing, it's nice and warm and you can do almost anything. Her favorite color is blue. Fran's best friend in school was Midge.

National Healthcare Environmental Services & Housekeeping Week, September 12-18, 2021

Held every year during the second full week of September, Environmental Services Week/International Housekeepers Week is a week dedicated to recognizing the efforts of hard-working custodial staff members. True stars of any building's operation, custodial staff demonstrate the extraordinary teamwork and management required to care for complex healthcare environments around our country.

Cleaning employees have one of the toughest and most important jobs in a building. Buildings that aren't properly cared for can lead to illness and slow productivity for those who live, work, and eat there. Take some time out of your day to celebrate, appreciate and recognize all the professionals working in your healthcare environmental services.

A National Day of Service and Remembrance

Saturday, September 11, 2021 marks the 20th anniversary of the World Trade Center terrorist attacks in New York City. Also, known as Patriot Day, it is a tribute to nearly 3,000 lives lost or injured, as well as an opportunity to honor first responders and defenders of our nation's freedom.

An annual ceremony takes place at Ground Zero where the World Trade Center was rebuilt; now the tallest building in the Western hemisphere, with the largest man-made waterfall and two sunken pools, the footprints of the original Twin Towers. The commemoration includes a reading of names and six minutes of silence: two minutes for the moments each tower was hit, two minutes when each fell, one minute for the Pentagon crash and one minute for the crash of flight 93. The commemoration recognizes the hope, resilience and unity of the United States.
